

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE COWS

"Moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow, "I heard the other day of a little boy named Eugene who said he thought he had never looked at a cow who wasn't eating."

"And then he suddenly did notice one who wasn't eating and he was surprised as though he had seen something very startling and remarkable and wonderful."

"Grand words you use," said Miss Cow. "Moo, moo, grand words."

"I learn them by heart," said Mrs. Cow, "and then I have the ready." She swished her tail and continued:

"He saw me, too, when I wasn't eating. No, I had other important business matters to attend to at the time and I couldn't give my attention to eating."

"What other important business matters?" Miss Cow asked.

"I was scratching my chin upon the fence. It was on the fence over yonder. And I rubbed my chin up and down on the fence rail and found it pleasant."

"That new chocolate colored pig will be trying the same thing soon, I'm sure. Copying my brilliant ideas."

"Oh well, I don't mind, I had a pleasant scratch and my chin felt delightfully afterward."

"Oh, it's so nice to be a cow," said Miss Cow. "We don't have to think ahead, we can be so calm and so peaceful and so happy."

Then Miss Cow gave Mrs. Cow a nice friendly lick with her warm rough tongue, and Mrs. Cow gave Miss Cow a nice friendly lick, too.

"They say cows have little feelings, little affections," said Miss Cow, "but it isn't true."

"Not true," said Miss Cow. "They think we haven't any sentiment, but in our own way we have."

"We have a good deal of sentiment and affection for creatures who have two stomachs. A creature with two stomachs doesn't sound very romantic, but we admit we like to eat and chew—others pretend they don't care about

"I was scratching my chin," it, but when I saw that a fuss they sometimes make about their food."

"Chewing is good for the digestion," said Miss Cow, "and a good digestion means a good disposition very often, and a good disposition quite frequently means a warm, kind heart."

"You've learned some words, too," said Mrs. Cow. "Moo, moo, I should say you had."

"Oh, I pick up a few when they're hanging around with nothing to do. I want to give them shelter you know. So I take them into my poor cow brain and learn them. I suppose as you do, by heart, though they're in my brain."

"I just can't explain all that."

"Never mind," said Mrs. Cow. "I have some news for you."

"Spring is really coming, for the children are beginning to go off on their bicycles to school. And if you will look at the schoolhouse down the road you will see that outside of it are many bicycles waiting for their owners."

"The bicycles look springlike. And each bicycle staying there so still is waiting for an adventure—a ride, a spill, a race—something!"

"Then I heard of the farmer's cat—Toony. Toony got up on the roof and tried to get down a new way. She got along an upper ledge which led to a window."

"She didn't know what to do, as the window was locked, and it was also stuck so no one could open it. A little distance away was the upstairs enclosed porch and there was an open window leading into it."

"The farmer opened the window and told Toony to jump. And Toony did so and made that wonderfully, clever jump."

"That's the biggest news of the farmyard, I believe. But let us chew and eat some more. If people seldom see us when we aren't chewing or eating, let us not surprise them by doing any other way."

"Not only for the sake of the people, but for our own cow's sakes as well."

"For our own cow's sakes, too, moo, moo," agreed Miss Cow. "For our own cow's sakes, too."

Sympathy

The old gentleman met the ground with a thud. A small boy who was watching burst into tears.

"Don't cry, little man," said the old gentleman, "I'm not very much hurt!"

"No," whimpered the youngster, "but it was my banana you slipped on!"

To Reclaim Land

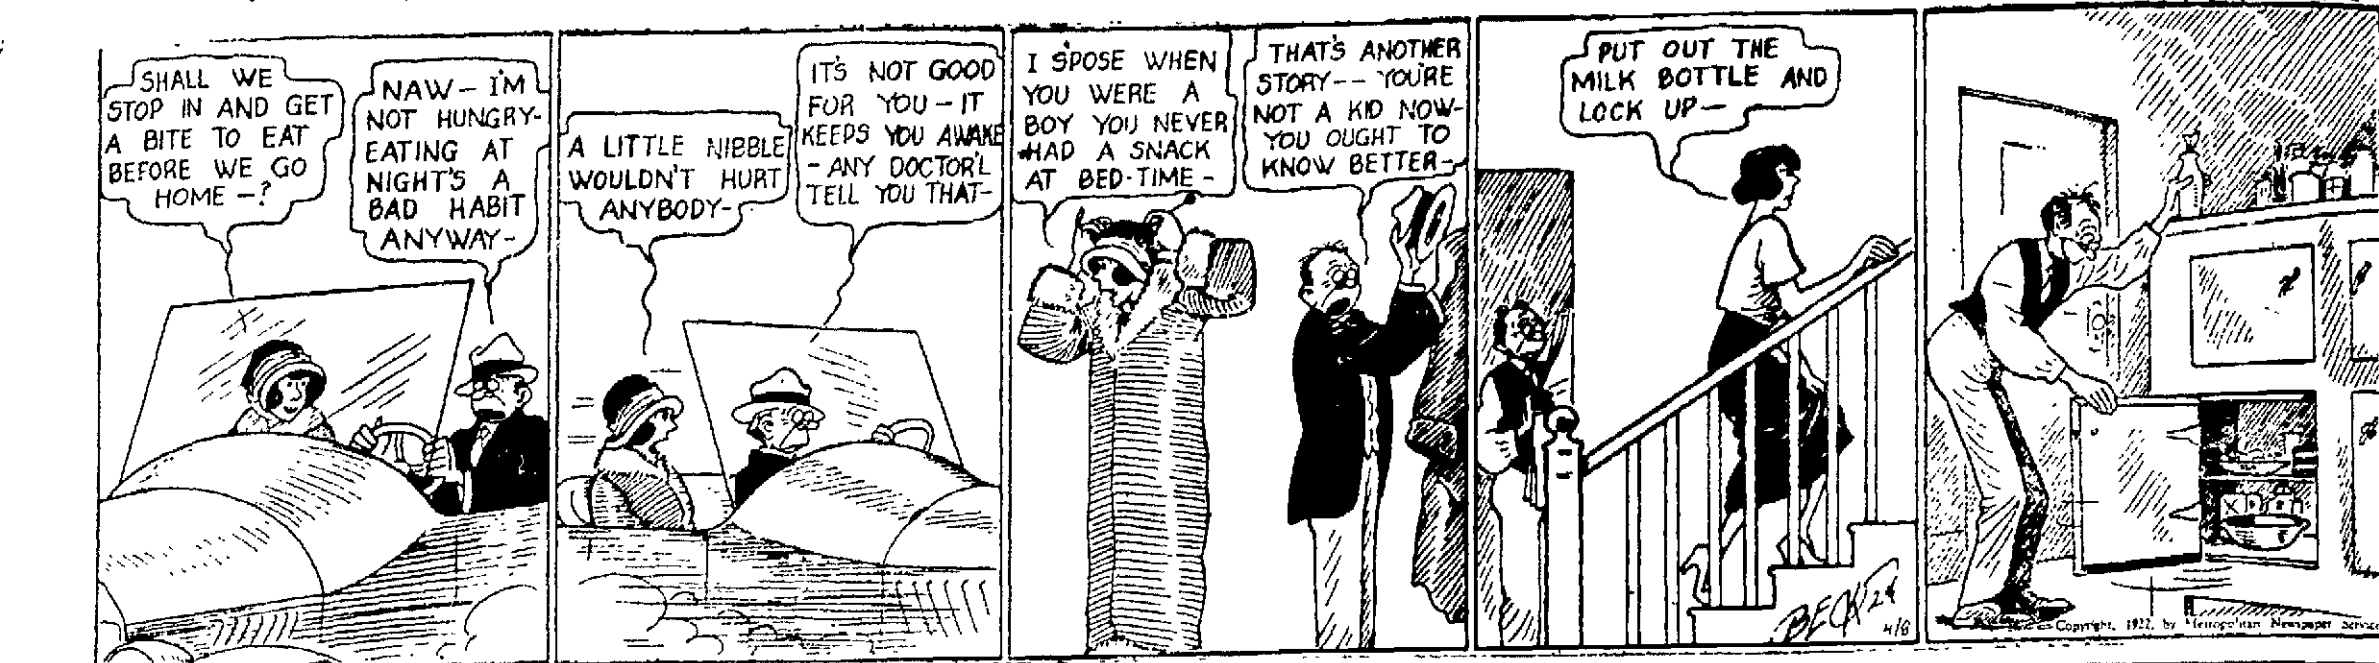

The Yellow river, "China's Sorrow," has been dammed by an American engineering corporation. Millions of persons have been drowned by the river's floods and it has changed its course many times in centuries past. The land formerly under water will be reclaimed and power may be developed at the dam.

Vindictiveness

Vindictiveness never settled anything right. And analysis will show there is a lot of vindictiveness in many a reform movement. One doesn't make men better by hate.

The KITCHEN CABINET

IF YOU MAKE LIFE WORTH LIVING, THEN THESE BIG THINGS WILL BE YOURS. JUST LOVE AN' WORK AN' EAT UP.

SERVE THE SOUP

Every spoonful of leftover vegetables, bones, broth from corned beef or a cupful of gravy, celery leaves and parsley, a tablespoonful of peas, are all an addition to a pot of soup. Anything that is good no matter how small a quantity may be utilized in a soup. Soup prepared from such bits may be served at a low cost, while an occasional cream soup is served to add variety.

Vegetable Soup.—For three quarts of soup use one cupful each of diced meat, fresh or cooked carrots, turnips and tomatoes. Add one-half of a minced onion, one tablespoonful of salt and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. A few leaves of lettuce, cabbage or summer squash may be added for variety. Bring to a boil, using four quarts of water, and cook slowly one and one-half hours. The last half hour add one-half cupful of rice and more salt and pepper if needed.

Cream of Salsify Soup.—Scrub six good roots of salsify, cut off the tops and let stand in cold water until ready to cook. Cook in boiling water until tender, press through a fine sieve. Put the pulp with a sliced onion and two sprigs of parsley into a double boiler. Add a pint of milk and let stand on the fire until needed. Add one-third of a cupful of sweet fat, add one-half cupful of flour and cook until smooth. Add one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika and one quart of bubbling hot milk. Then add the salsify and milk. Reheat and add two well-beaten eggs mixed with a cupful of cream. Serve hot. The yolks may be cooked in the soup and the whites beaten stiff and served on top as a garnish. A tablespoonful of whipped cream, or less, on a bowl of soup is a great improvement.

Stuffed Eggs.—Cook eggs until hard and cut into halves after shelling. Remove the yolk, mash with softened butter, a bit of cayenne, onion juice, mustard and salt. Mix well and re-fill the whites with the seasoned yolks. Before filling dust the cavity with salt and rub with melted butter. Serve with bread and butter sandwiches.

Neenie Maxwell

Quiz Railroad Chief in Liquor Raid.

When a large quantity of champagne and expensive liquors was found in his private car, President George Le Boutillier, of the Long Island Railroad, issued an emphatic denial that he had any interest in its ownership. Charles Jones, a negro porter, was arrested.

April 7.—The situation in Lily, Pa., was tense today after the clashes between citizens and Ku Klux members Saturday night when Klansmen killed and fifty persons were wounded, three of whom, including a nine year old boy, are in a serious condition in an Altoona Hospital.

The police are patrolling the area here while 26 alleged Klansmen are being held in jail at Johnstown. Two townsmen are in custody and four others were taken to county jail at Ebensburg under guard of state police last night.

Monday's trouble was not unexpected, according to some citizens.
They declared Klansmen have visited twice this month and erected crosses, which were torn down
by citizens.

Play of Oedipus Rex Is Tremendous Tragedy

The play begins. The crowd enters the people driven by pestilence and their king and toward the city. Stark Young in the North American Review. The prophet comes;
he is on the land. Oedipus sets upon the search that is to be his life. The woman who is his mother also his wife throws herself before him. And, finally, in the end, Oedipus with the clasp of his mantle digs out his eyes. He endures in that most terrible shudder of drama; he feels the pain, his deaths far from him, shame in a world and in the next he feels nothing; even his children are in from him, and he goes out to wander alone over the world. And now while the chorus has sung and carried into a wider reference in the events of the play and the thoughts of the characters. The music of the instruments has widened yet beyond the whole, giving it a yet more general and essential abstraction and seeming to spread upon it an aspect of the eternal. The changing lines of a chorus and the actors have resolved less obscure the poet's desire, and all his thought; the Salamis or head wind, blowing another rhythm to these bright garments, has carried into universal space that flow of movement under the wide light.

Origin of Oath

The custom of swearing on the Bible comes from the ancient Jews, who, first, in taking oaths, touched small pieces containing strips of parchment where were inscribed texts from Old Testament.

Tailor-Made Is Most Important

Newest Fashion Note Promises to Be Forced Into Early Discard.

Because the tailor-made note is the newest one in fashions of the moment
it is stressed as the most important,
says a fashion writer in the New York Herald. Already the makers are complaining that it will be overdone, that the afternoon clothes for older women and the evening gowns are being neglected. It is too much copied and exploited, they say, to long endure.

This may be a measure of truth, but the unobtrusiveness of the dark colors used will be a factor in preserving its popularity and usefulness, and sometimes after a flare of overpopularity a mode settles down into being an accepted fact, and a simple mode has many more chances of survival than the more extreme types copied for the sake of novelty.

A tailored dress made to order is a thing so difficult of imitation that there is not much chance of it being copied to any great extent. There are as many ways to adapt it to the individuality of the wearer as there would be if it were an afternoon dress and no one advocates abolishing them because they have become wearisome.
Certainly a review of the ones offered by the makers in Paris reveals an endless number of ideas and decidedly more than in some of the other types.

In the first place the silhouette of the tailored dress is very much diversified by the addition of circular founces at the front or all the way around, by plaits and by panels of all descriptions, by being pinched in at one side or at both and by hanging straight in tunic fashion. Sleeves also present all the variations that it is possible to have in the daytime, from the ultra-smart long tight-fitting ones with sharp-pointed cuffs to dresses almost without sleeves.

Simple Dress Most Successful.
Philippe et Gaston has been very successful this season with unusually simple dresses. In them the long, narrow belted waistline is used and the long, fairly tight sleeve. In one dress the main feature of the decoration consists of insets of the rep running in contrary direction to the rest of the material, beginning with a perpendicular cut of material in the blouse and horizontal in the skirt. A long, very narrow vest is of white tucked material, with collar to match.
With this simple dress, quite complete in itself, is a straight jacket with bands of crosswise material running the length of the fronts.

The inset vest is a marked characteristic of the tailored mode from this house, for it again appears in a model of dark blue rep with vest of white silk embroidered in severe points all around the edges. So deep is this vest that the lower part of it is crossed by the belt. In this model note, too, the increased height of the collar and the manner in which it stands frankly up around the chin.

All that has been said about the straight unchanged silhouette seems to be merely a matter of comparison.
In many of its latest manifestations it cannot be called straight and still make use of the circular founce without varying in some degree. The straight unbelted dress sometimes combines with this circular founce in an acceptable manner.

This is a form of the tailored or simple day dress that Drecoli makes use of in a successful model which has for its chief decoration insets of finely plaited material. The color scheme of this dress is dark blue

Model.

trimmed with red. From the bateau neck line straight tucks extend well below the hip line, where a square section is outlined with a narrow band of the tucks, the square having the effect of a large patch pocket. At a line just above the knees the circular founce is set on. In this dress it is used at the back as well as in the front. Narrow bands of the material constitute the sleeves, the tucking running the up-and-down way of the sleeves. Very simple this dress, but perhaps one of the most interesting of Drecoli's simple models.

A black kaisha dress has a line of

of white extending the length of the tunic, which is beltless and ends just below the knees. A white scarf is part of the design of this dress.

Shadow plaids in black with linings and pipings in colors are frequent. A black-and-white plaid, or rather a black ground material with a scarcely visible cross bar in white, is made with a detachable cape of the same material lined in red and trimmed with red kid at the sides simulating
a girle.

O'Rosen, who is counted an authority in suits, has presented his spring versions of the tailored type. The slightly fitted or pinched-in jacket is among the ones which have caused comment. It follows the generally accepted straight lines except that at each side above the slot pocket a little inverted plait catches in the fullness in an easy manner. Another suit by this maker has panels at each side of the front, ending in a curved bound pocket trimmed with small buttons.

Several of the other makers are showing suits accenting the curved manner in a slightly fitted line which,

the Slight Pinched-in Effect in This Suit.

contrary to the treatment of O'Rosen, allows the bottom of the jacket to set out from the hips with a suggestion of a flare.

Dress With Wide Flare.
A Doucet sheath dress makes use of an entirely different silhouette, one in which the wide flare at the bottom is not to be ignored. The sheath extends well down over the hips with a pinched-in movement and a consequent slight blousing at the normal waistline.

From the dipped line at the front
a circular apron hangs in rather set folds almost to the bottom of the close fitting skirt. Following the atmosphere of the circular apron are sleeves with a circular flare attached at the elbows. The neck of this dress is indicative of the trend to rounder lines than that of the bateau, just escaping being classified as the latter.

A dress very much like the last one described has a plaited tunic instead of the circular apron, thus keeping the silhouette in the straight class rather than the flaring.

Lenef makes concession to the circular silhouette in a chic model with wide embroidered collars and cuffs and full circular skirt hanging in folds almost like box plaits. Navy blue crepe de laine is the material of this dress and the collar is white georgette embroidered in blue, with a bright blue tie of crepe worn in an artist's bow and hanging nearly to the waistline.

A wide sash pulled tightly about the hips is greatly in evidence in many of the models both for afternoon and for the earlier hours of the day. Its essential difference from the wide girdle of the current models lies in the fact that it is used frequently with a straight waist above and as part of it.
Below the girdle the skirt, apron or plaiting appear independent of the portion above. In other words, it is part of the waist and is not merely a width of the material tied around a straight chemise dress. Just how this effect is achieved is not easily seen, but the result is new and rather attractive.

Attractive Dress of Beige Crepe.
A coat dress of beige crepe by Lenier has an unusual line running from one side of the standing collar to the opposite side of the waist, forming a triangular inset at the side of the surplised top of the dress, the revers being lined with black satin.
At the left side of the dress a wide flat bow of the satin serves as fastening and heads the circular part of the skirt. This circular flare appears at the left side only.

One can scarcely imagine anything more satisfying in its simplicity than the dress for morning wear by Jean Patou. It is, as are many of these morning-hour gowns made of rep; in this model navy blue is used and the trimming is a revival of the wool embroidery of a few seasons ago.

In Oriental Manner

More and more women are wearing their hair in the oriental manner.
This is, of course, much like the Spanish, except that for evening a veil or scarf is used instead of a high comb, the whole effect being sleek and low instead of sleek and high.

On Dressing Table

Quite an acquisition of the dressing table is an oval basket of rose or blue leather that holds four small bottles with enameled tops. The bottles are shaped so that they fit snugly into the oval.

Giants Know They're Good

Knowledge So Extensive It Is Making Them Take Defeat Quite Easily and Too Often for Own Good.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, April 7.—One of the leading baseball authorities in this or any other city, has dropped a rather broad typographical hint to the effect that all is not serene in the camp of the New York Giants. This man
"pegged" the first four teams in the National League and the first three in the American last year in the order of their ultimate finish and he intim-ates now that the Giants are much too carefree lackadaisical, blasé and indifferent to achieve the best results.
The club looks singularly unlike a championship outfit, he infers.

The main complaint is that the Giants, according to our critical friend, are prone to accept defeat with marked serenity and in spite of the fact that they are not hitting.
do not seem to have a care in the world.
It was always thus with a chronic winner.

The present Giant outfit has reached the critical stage of its professional career, the moment when, simultaneously, triumphs become tasteless and efficiency is not what it was. This attitude is the cardinal answer to the fact that no modern ball club has been able to win four consecutive pennants in spite of the wonderful machines turned out by Mc-Graw, Chance and Connie Mack.

As in the case of the old Athletics of 1915, there is nothing new looking about the Giants on paper. They seem, in fact, to be a better club than McGraw mustered in 1923, the addition of Billy Southworth to the outfield eliminating what was something of a defensive sieve. Neither Mc-Graw nor anyone connected with the club regrets the Bancroft deal. It removed a fine short stop and introduced a great ball player to the outfield. Bancroft's successor, Young Jackson, has been far from a riot in the south, but the fact remains that more games were lost last season in center field than were won at short stop.

In addition, McGraw has improved his pitching no little by getting Joe Oeschger from Boston, Wayland Dean from Louisville, Ernie Maun from Wichita and Howard Baldwin from Newark. Dean's $50,000 worth of right arm has been the sensation of the camp and Oeschger is pitching in his form of several years ago. Also, two fine recruit infielders have been uncovered in Bill Terry and Fred Lindstrom of the American Association.

The recruits, in fact, are the best the Giants have taken south since 1912 and therein lies some of the difficulty, our critic declares. They are so good that the Giant regulars have come to believe that the club, being superior to any of the three time pennant winners is unbeatable. He says they are taking the winning of the 1924 pennant for granted.

Taking anything for granted in baseball is like taking carpet tacks for indigestion.

Chancellor Marx, addressing the German Centrist party here today, bitterly assailed France's policy "of policy was stirring up the German Nationalists and might lead to the ruin of Germany.

The Germans, he added, "are mer enemy—France."

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 7, 1924.

William Jennings Bryan follows Henry Ford—with perhaps less interested motives—and pronounces Mr. Coolidge "as high-minded a man as ever sat in the Presidential chair."

In spite of reports to the contrary, it may be taken for granted that that Bergdoll person will continue to try to get along without the United States, all it can offer him being a term in prison.

The President is quoted as saying that "there are only two things necessary in a boy—hard work and to behave himself." The number of boys who heartily agree with him is probably not large.

Cardinal Faulhaber of Germany having reached the conclusion that the sinking of the Lusitania was a blunder, it is to be hoped that, as a churchman, he at least agrees with Napoleon that some blunders are worse than crime.

If Bergdoll returns and starts to serve his prison sentence for desertion, we will probably have a recurrence of the mushy sentimentality that strove to release the other draft evaders. Let us hope it will not succeed in defeating the ends of justice in his case.

RADIO-TELEPATHY.

And now it is proposed to transmit thought by a process similar to that of the transmission of news, speeches and music by radio. Telepathy is defined as the transference of thought from one person to another. Scientists claim to know nothing of the mysterious, hidden process by which this is done or seems to be done, and it is said that most scientists doubt whether anything of the sort is done, yet the news comes that two Harvard psychologists are experimenting with a view to "transmit thought" between Boston and New York and even longer distances. The telegraph, telephone and radio were miracles of achievement which would have been scoffed at as impossible by the generations preceding them, but obviously an effort to transmit super-material waves passed from mind to mind is a more practical undertaking still, the results of which may well be regarded as of doubtful desirability.

The imagination is staggered at the prospect of a time when the literary plagiarist, the thief of inventions, and the sensation-hunting crowd will need only to arrange their "receiving sets" in order to invade the mind of another, appropriate his ideas and pry into his secrets. Probably the two Harvard psychologists do not aim at so much as this, but this would seem to be the logical and ultimate outcome in case of the success of the experiment now in hand. And what could be more abominably upsetting of the measure of peace still left a world of increasing nervous strain? Already the conservative mind, lamenting the passing of the simple life, is inclined to wish that we could have an end of marvelous inventions and the strain involved in the effort to face and live up to them.

DANCING AS WORSHIP.

Bishop Manning has "cut off" St. Mark's Church, New York, because of "dance rituals" introduced and persisted in by its rector, Dr. Guthrie, in spite of Episcopal protest and condemnation. The Bishop declines to visit the parish and congregation while bare-footed dancing girls continue to figure in its ritual, but the accounts indicate that Dr. Guthrie is not much disturbed by excommunication in this mild form, perhaps considering it a small price to pay for his ability to draw a crowd and successfully compete with the spectacles of New York's theaters and movies. Dr. Guthrie is said to describe his terpsichorean diversions of bare-footed maidens as "a religious dance in honor of the Virgin Mary," but sober-minded and historically instructed observers will be inclined to characterize it as a reversion toward ancient pagan forms of worship.

And they may recall that Nietzsche, in his worship of strength and contempt of the weak, his ridicule of self-restraint as a means of moral purification, his hatred of Christian ideals, his deification of the superman as a blonde beast of prey, turned from Christian conceptions to the lawless pursuit of the merely pleasurable, aggressively indicating naturalism of paganism. Bishop Manning may well regard Dr. Guthrie and his "ecumenical ritual" as a problem second only to the conflict between the fundamentalists and the modernists.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

A THOUGHT ABOUT CHILDREN.

A health writer dealing with statistics, states that men who work in factories are more prone to tuberculosis than business and professional men.

That where there is more or less of a struggle to make a living as in industrial work, the dust, long hours and so forth, there is more tuberculosis than where the men are better off financially.

However, he makes another statement that is more startling.

He says that statistics show that there is less tuberculosis amongst the children of these industrial workers than amongst the well to do people.

Isn't this significant?

Why is it?

Well, the children of the industrial worker get plain food, get more fresh air, and are not penned up in a hot steam heated house, as are the more fortunate or unfortunate children of the wealthy.

These latter are coddled, kept in from the cold, allowed to eat anything and everything, and to stay up later at night. Everything that tends to lessen their resisting power.

You have only to pass through industrial districts to see the crowds of youngsters playing outdoors.

In the summer it is tag, soft or hard baseball, off to the swimming place, or any one of a number of things that children love to do.

In the winter it is skating, sliding or hill climbing.

Their parents simply allow them to go out and enjoy themselves.

The result is a real appetite, a strengthening of heart and lungs, of entire body in fact, and a sleep that is long and undisturbed.

One can't wonder, then, that they build up a resistance to tuberculosis in their youth; that their record is better than the children of wealthy parents.

This condition of being free of tuberculosis lasts until about the age of 20, when we find that the indoor industrial worker begins to lose his resistance after he begins his work in the factory. And so factory managers strive to get their employees to engage in outdoor sports. They get more light and sunshine into their shops, furnish a real substantial meal for them at a minimum price, in fact at a price less than cost.

A nurse is also in attendance.

Most of these managers do this from a real desire to play the game fairly with their employees.

Other managers do it from a purely business standpoint.

They find that where the places are well lighted, plenty of sunshine coming in, good food supplied and sports encouraged, that their employees are happier, are more contented with their jobs and strikes are infrequent. They also find that the amount of sickness is less.

At My Age

My Youth Cream keeps this baby skin

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Thousands upon thousands of women have asked me to tell what I employ. They see me and they say, "You look so young, even rosier than 40 years ago. My life has been lived in the sunlight. And I served France for years in the rigors of the war."

A French creation. French experts perfected this cream for me many years ago. It contains products of both lemon and raspberry. Also all the best that nature knows to soften, whiten, and feed the skin.

Neither I nor my friends have ever used a cream to compare with this. The expert makers tell me it is the best cream produced. So I have arranged to have them make the identical cream for you. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream. All druggists and toilet counters now supply it at 60c per jar. It comes in two types—the Cold Cream type and the Vanishing type. Be sure to get the type you want. Both have the same essential constituents. Neither grows hair on the face.

There also supply my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay—the best word in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth, to which I owe my heavy, lustrous hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Go try my Youth Cream. Learn how it exerts all others. Then I think you will want all the beauty helps which have done so much for me. Edna Wallace Hopper, 520 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

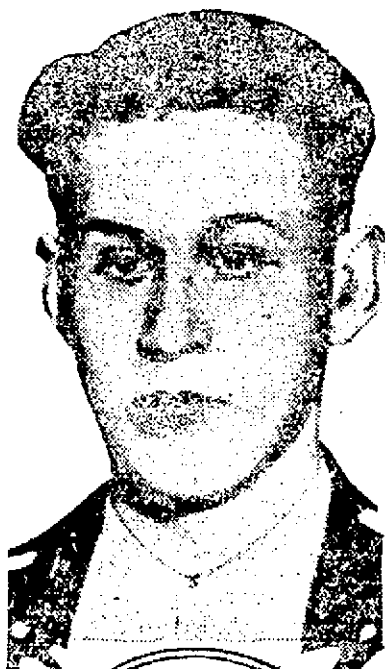

High Water Saved Trout

Too Much Water for Fishing as Season Opened—Flood of Water Now Pouring Into Ashokan Reservoir.

The trout season opened Saturday and although the streams were high and roily there were many fishermen out. At Phenicia and vicinity a number of good size trout were taken out but on the average the catches were small as well as the fish caught. At Mt. Tremper one fisherman caught a fourteen inch speckled beauty as well as several smaller ones. Sunday, the streams, swollen by the rain which began to fall Sunday morning, soon became raging torrents and augmented by the melting snows higher up in the mountains were soon raised beyond any hope of fishing.

The Esopus creek by afternoon was running flood high and pouring a great quantity of water into the Ashokan reservoir which is not yet free from ice. Rains this winter and the melting snow on the lower mountains have not raised the height of the water in the Ashokan reservoir to any degree, it remaining the same as last fall. However, the present rain together with the melting snow from the higher peaks of the mountains will assist in filling up the big lake. A considerable amount of water will also be allowed to flow into the Ashokan from the Gilboa project although the Schoharie watershed will not supply any great quantity of water for a time until the work is completed and the water impounded behind the main dam at Gilboa. At present some water is being diverted through the Shandaken tunnel by means of a temporary dam but the flow is not of sufficient quantity to make any great impression upon the Ashokan reservoir, which remains very low.

Confesses He Drowned Wounded Girl.

STANLEY ZALESKI, JR.
SOPHIE CUPEK

Stanley Zaleski, Jr., a 17-year-old schoolboy, of Chicopee, Mass., calmly confessed that he lured Sophie Cupek, a 14-year-old schoolgirl, of Williamansett, into the cellar of his home, where he attacked her and beat her unconscious with a club. He placed her on his toboggan, dragged her to the Connecticut River and threw her in. To a passerby who saw a movement under the rug with which he covered her, he said he was taking some kittens to be drowned.

Senate to Pass Bonus Bill Soon

Probably Ahead of Tax Measure—President Will Veto It, House Will Re-pass It, But No One Knows What Senate Will Do.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, April 7.—The soldiers' bonus bill, after a sleep of weeks in the senate finance committee, crept into the limelight again today.

Coincident with announcement by Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, that the tax reduction bill would be ready to report to the senate tomorrow or Wednesday, soldier bonus advocates began a renewed drive to have their bill given the right of way over the tax measure.

Assured of passage with a vote proportionate to that by the house, it seemed certain today the bonus would be disposed of by the senate before the tax bill.

Senator Smoot, an administration leader, predicted the bonus measure would be ready for the senate by the latter part of this week or the first of next.

The chief fight on the bonus, once it is in the senate, will be waged by Democrats to insert a cash provision, which, except in amounts of less than $50, was eliminated by the house. It now provides only certificates of paid insurance, which, after three years, gets a cash value. Democratic leaders announced today they want an amendment providing for cash payments in addition to the insurance feature.

Many of the administration veterans will oppose a cash bonus. Smoot estimated the bonus bill in its present form would cost the government approximately $135,000,000, and he will fight all moves to increase that figure.

Even in the senate the bonus debate is not expected to be extended. Efforts will be made on all sides to speed it to the White House, where, if he follows earlier statements, President Coolidge will send it back to congress with a veto. The house will pass the bonus over a veto. In the senate the question is conjectural.

Only the finishing touches remained to be put on the tax bill today. These were mainly administrative features and contemplated no changes in the rate schedules.

Mary Succeeds on Main Street

By LAURA MILLER

© 1923, by Laura Miller

THE UNIVERSITY OF THE YARDS

"Main Street can't train girls to earn a living," is a plaint that runs through thousands of letters, in one wording or another, from girls who seek careers. True, it is that courses in biology, in art, in medicine, are not to be found at any crossroads. But suppose a fury of desire to paint people—or to cut them up and remodel them nearer to good health's desire—doesn't drive Mary off Main Street? Shall she forsake family and friends and all the comfortable, homely things one grows up with, for a casual career? If one's just the average girl, may not the little home town job, where a conscientious worker learns something of everything, help out if the great test comes?

Let me tell you the story of Mary Marshall of Marshalltown, Ind. It was early in 1919. War brides were hurrying to meet transports from France. Fathers in khaki were losing their look born of horrors as they gazed upon miraculous little sons that recalled their own before-the-war selves.

Mary Marshall, nee Hopkins, had just come to Washington for a job that would support herself and John, Jr. She and John, Sr., had run the railroad and village telegraph office until 1915. Then she had abruptly become Mrs. Marshall and sole operator. She was a competent worker, evidently. And she knew she was releasing not merely a man, but her man for war service. When John, Jr., arrived she gave up work and lived with Father and Mother Marshall.

The day Mary came to me—I was running Uncle Sam's employment office in Washington just then—I tried to send her back to Marshalltown. She had a home. She had a baby to take care of. And she was—so I told her—practically untrained. Hadn't she come straight from the corner of Main Street and Railroad Avenue?

Mary Marshall wouldn't go back to Marshalltown. After a generous portion of stupidity on my part and of shyness on hers, the story came out. John, Sr., was in a Washington hospital, shell-shocked. His chances for sanity lay in seeing Mary and John, Jr., every day. A job was found for Mary as correspondence clerk in the telegraph division of the United States Railroad administration. It was no charity job, either. "There isn't anything she didn't learn something about in that little dump of an office in the railroad yards," her chief said later. "She's all to the good."

For obvious reasons, Mary Marshall and Marshalltown aren't her real name and address. But the story is real to the core.

An honest man is one who confesses that he still desires the things he was denied when a boy.

The Truth.

Women's faults are many;

Men have only two—

Everything they say, and Everything they do!

More people are interested in the fruits of their own labor than in what the can get off their family tree.

The girl who kisses promiscuously isn't bad—she's merely generous.

Correct this sentence: "Yes, they are normal in every way," said the mother; "and they detest chewing gum."

A woman thinks more of her figure and her complexion than a man does of everything he has.

When a man's conscience is aroused he thinks of his own misdeeds, and is disturbed by a sense of his own guilt.

Atlas could never have carried the world if he had thought only of the size of it.

"Ain't nature grand?" Often men with the longest whiskers have the shortest hair.

The sympathetic visitor to the hospital stopped at the bedside of a pale young man swathed in bandages. "Cheer up," he said unctuously. "Keep smiling; it's the best medicine."

"I'll never smile again," replied the battered one sadly. "I'll never smile again—at least, not at another fellow's girl."

My Life's Aim.

When first we draw an earthly breath.

We weep, the nothing harms us.

While those around smile happy smiles.

And ask if ought alarms us.

Then let us live that when we go,

And leave this world behind us.

That all who know us weep and mourn.

While they shall smiling find us.

Bethlehem's Faith In Its 70,000 Men Is Justified By Five Years Experience

Employee's Representatives At One of Bethlehem's Plants

ONE of the most inspiring successes in American industrial relations, and an indication of what the future holds for stable progress along lines of intelligent cooperation between labor and management, has just been disclosed in a survey made of the past five years' experiences of the Bethlehem Plan at the widespread plants of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Twelve years ago the company employed 11,000 people. At the present time the payroll force is in excess of 70,000. This force is distributed among seven great steel plants in Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland, seven great shipbuilding plants in Massachusetts, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey and California.

The survey brought out the fact that the 12 chairman of the employees' representative bodies in 12 plants represent a total of 245 years Bethlehem service. This continuity of work in one industry together with the workings of the Bethlehem plan of employee representation, has had much to do with the success of the past five years.

Under the Bethlehem plan the workers individually and collectively in any plant are encouraged to make their own decisions. It differs from other similar plans in that elected employee representatives operating by themselves, in touch through committees with the management, pass on every employment problem not previously settled satisfactorily by the regular plant authorities.

For over five years the company has been trusting to the good sense and good faith of large groups of workers, many of them non-English speaking, and with the happiest results. It is the experience that over 85 percent of the employees take part in elections. The way the men who manage the great corporation and the workers who attend to its manufacturing processes are working together is shown by the fact that in the past five years not a single matter has called for arbitration and only one out of 2,750 has gone beyond the general joint committee of appeals. And recent figures show 1,857 cases settled in favor of the employee to 412 against them.

Clinton Koch, Chairman, Employees' Representatives At Bethlehem Plant

Employee representation is an established institution in the Bethlehem plants and is recognized as an important factor in the amazing progress and expansion of the corporation in the past five years.

THE WEEK AT RONDOUT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Rondout Presbyterian Church on the first Sunday of April, 1924, fifty years ago, was opened for services, and Sunday the present pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, called attention to the fact that this morning service, during the half century just passed many people have entered its communion and many others have passed on, he said, while great changes have come and gone. The busy traffic of the creek in those days has largely passed to be succeeded by a traffic over the creek in ever increasing numbers. One cannot even dream of the condition that may prevail on these corners fifty years hence.

The session will meet at the manse Tuesday evening to prepare the annual report for the Presbytery and General Assembly. The annual church meeting will be held Thursday evening in the chapel.

The Presbytery of the North River will meet in the church on Monday, April 21, at 2:30 o'clock. The meeting that evening will be of a popular nature and should be attended by all. All the meetings of the Presbytery are open to the public.

The church choir will give an Easter cantata at a special vesper service to be announced later. The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society will be held in the chapel Tuesday, April 15, at 3 o'clock, for the election of officers.

Capitals of Missouri

Missouri has had three state capitals during its historic career. The first was at St. Louis, from which place it was moved to St. Charles about 1821. It was permanently made at Jefferson City in 1820. Alexander McNair was the first governor after the state's admission in 1821.

SAUGERTIES MAN BITTEN

BY RUNAWAY FOX

Adelbert Tompkins of Macdonald street, Saugerties, had the misfortune to be bitten about the hands and arms on Sunday morning, when a pet fox, owned by him, broke loose from its pen and started to run away. With the aid of a few townfolks the runaway was soon cornered and as Mr. Tompkins started to bring it back to the house it turned and tried to free itself, thus inflicting wounds in the hands and arms of Mr. Tompkins. After some difficulty the fox was once more chained.

Legislature in Its Final Drive

With Adjournment Stated For Thursday Night Sessions and Action on Several Big Bills Are In Order.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, April 7.—Both houses of the legislature tonight will settle down to the final drive toward adjournment of the 1924 session next Thursday night. There will be heavy calendars in both the senate and assembly, and indications are that the lawmakers will grind away until the early hours of Tuesday morning in an effort to get legislation in shape for the final gavel the latter part of the week.

Virtually all of the important recommendations made by Governor Smith in his annual and special messages have been favorably acted upon by the Democratic senate. With but few exceptions, all of the governor's measures are being held tightly in the grip of the assembly rules committee, of which Speaker Macdonald is chairman. The bill sponsored by Senator James J. Walker, the Democratic leader of the upper house, repealing the state motion picture censorship law, is the chief administration measure that has not been disposed of in the senate. Action on this bill is expected in the senate tomorrow.

Chief measures to be acted upon in the Republican assembly include the Jenks bill calling for a state wide prohibition enforcement law, the state wide automobile bill agreed upon by Governor Smith and Speaker Macdonald, the enabling act to permit cities to function under the home rule amendment adopted at the last election.

Advocates of the Jenks bill insist it will be passed in the assembly, but virtually admit its defeat in the Democratic senate. The bill would place a law on the statute books to take the place of the Mullan-Gage law repealed during the closing hours of the 1923 session. It was drafted by a committee of the district attorney's association of the Anti-Saloon league and other prohibition organizations.

A possibility of a compromise between the Republican and Democratic leaders on New York City's transit legislation, was reported at the capitol today. A definite decision on this subject is expected to be reached tonight.

Democratic leaders admitted today they had little hope that the rule committee would report out the bills recommended by the governor to give cities the right to acquire, own and operate all public utilities. Similar bills were defeated by the Republican assembly last year.

Governor Smith is expected to send the assembly a special message tonight urging adoption of his measures proposing amendments to the constitution to provide for an executive budget, a four year term for governor and consolidations of all state departments, bureaus and commissions into 21 main departments. The Republican assembly refused to consider a similar recommendation made last year by the governor.

The automobile bill, regarded as the most constructive piece of legislation of that character ever placed before the legislature will be passed either tonight or tomorrow in the assembly. Quick approval will be given by the senate. Under the bill every operator will have to be licensed and no person under 18 will be permitted to drive an automobile. A motor vehicle commissioner will be created with broad power to revoke licenses.

Incorporations Show Increase

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, April 7.—With one company incorporating last month to manufacture mouse traps, and another to breed cats, it looks like hard times ahead for the mice.

The report of Secretary of State Hamilton, covering the activities of the incorporation bureau, reveals that the first quarter this year ran about 200 companies over the total for the same period last year. There were 5,683 companies incorporated in New York state during the past three months, as against 5,376 in the first quarter of 1923.

The greater part of these companies are located in New York city, the report showing that out of the 5,683 companies that have been formed thus far this year, that only 726 are outside the metropolis.

In Ulster county one company was incorporated last month, this company forming to issue shares of stock having no par value, and not specifying the amount of capitalization.

THE SPRING COAT PROBLEM AGAIN APPEARS

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

A general survey of spring coats offered by smart shops leaves one in doubt as to the season, so elaborately are they trimmed with fur. The fur collar and sometimes fur bordered sports coat was a conspicuous resort favorite this winter but in white and light colorings, which in spite of the fur made them distinctly a summer item. While a dark or black satin fur trimmed coat may be light weight it is not suggestive of spring, yet this is the type of coat bought by the hundreds these days.

Edging collars and often coat fronts with fur is a favored and decorative feature often coupled with metal galleon or some type of embroidery in which color is introduced. Color is also associated in one's mind with linings, since the fad of using a brilliant crepe plain instead of figured has become the fashion. This idea was also launched among the plain trees, as well as black coats with brilliant linings.

While red is a favorite spring lining, smart navy coats are frequently lined with a blue of the Madonna type. These coats have trimmings of gray fur or a three inch band of fur applied above the hem, a newer placement than at the bottom.

The scarf collar provides another reason and place for the use of contrasting color, many of these scarfs being cloth on one side and a bright crepe on the other.

The scarf as a part of the coat or separate unit is an Easter consideration which implies that it is not restricted to sports wear.

Among the imports there are several coats made of novelty Rodier fabrics and some which have all over embroidery in ribbonzine. One black model of crepe has a scroll design in black ribbonzine and the design is repeated on the standing collar, sleeve edges and the bottom of the coat. It is carried out in a warm chocolate brown the coat lining being of the same shade.

While some coats flare the great majority follow a straight line. They rely on a button or tie at the throat to hold the coat in position aided and abetted by the position of one's arms when the wrap around is desired. Broadcloth charmeuse satins and a host of other smooth surfaced fabrics are first choice for smart coats. Light weight pile fabrics are also worn, but rather secondary in importance.

While belts that match have been consigned to the limbo of discarded fashions, there is a lively interest in decorative leather belts which may be added or subtracted at will. The harness belt is fear to the slender girl who has wearied of looking like a pipe stem and is experimenting with the idea of raising her waistline or at least acknowledging nature's decision as to its level.

Both silk and satin coats to say nothing of those of knitted woods are spring entries that deserve consideration, for while fashion acknowledges the importance of the suit, it does not admit of the possibility of omitting a coat.

COMES TO KINGSTON

Every Wednesday and Will Examine All Cases Free at 163 Clinton Ave. from 9 a. m. to 12 and 5 and 7 to 8 p. m.

Dr. Swinburne, Specialist Gives Wonderful Relief To Many Patients After Failure of Local Doctors.

Mrs. Earl Howland of Auburn, N. Y., writes as follows: Dr. Swinburne has saved me from the grave and I cannot praise him too highly. I was a total wreck from stomach trouble for seven years. Had tried number of doctors but they could not help me. Could eat very little and would have sinking spells at nearly die. After taking the three months' treatment of Dr. Swinburne I can say I am cured and feel like a new woman.

TO RESTORE A HEALTHY STOMACH WILL HELP MANY OTHER DISEASES.

In nine-tenths of the ailments there is some weakness of the stomach and poor assimilation of food that has caused the more serious disturbance. If you have developed other disease conditions such as headache, recurring vomiting spells, gall stones, jaundice, the more distressing disorders, rheumatism or heart weakness, you should at once begin a course of treatment to build up digestive assimilative functions and the results from such treatment is often astonishing.

Rheumatism Relieved by Treating the Stomach.

Mr. Henry Cole, a fireman, was badly crippled from rheumatism. He had to give up work, and could only get around with the aid of crutches. He had treated with number of doctors without obtaining any relief, until he became discouraged and thought there was no hope for him. His attention was called to a similar case where Dr. Swinburne had produced wonderful results by relieving rheumatic trouble by relieving treatment to cure the stomach. The terrible acidity, and stop the accumulation of acid in the blood. Mr. Cole decided to make one more effort to obtain relief. To his great astonishment and joy, he found after one month's treatment he had further use for the crutches. After three months he was completely relieved and was enjoying perfect health.

If you are suffering from chronic or obscure disease, you should call to see the doctor. There will be no charge unless you want treatment.

Doctor's next visit to 163 Clinton Ave., Kingston, on Wednesday, April 9th, from 9 a. m. to 12 and 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.; 6:30 to 8 p. m.

Kingston, N. Y., April 1st, 1924.
Stated this will be recovered by the Board of Fire Commissioners, City of Kingston, N. Y., Central Fire Station, at 8:30 a. m. on April 20th, 1924, for alterations to the system of the Central Fire Station, 100 Street, Kingston, New York.
Work to include removal of present floor, furnishing and erecting steel, any constructing reinforced concrete with necessary alterations to existing building, for its construction. Coughing only aggravates a cough

COUGHS are frequently due merely to irritation caused by a congested condition of throat and lung tissue. Persistent hacking will then only increase the congestion and continue the cough indefinitely. Such coughs can and should be stopped at once because they are a futile waste of strength.

Dr. King's New Discovery checks coughing quickly and without any bad after-effects. It quiets violent throat and lung spasms and gives the congestion a chance to clear away. It has an agreeable taste. All druggists.

ALLEN AND MCLURE TO BROADCAST APRIL 29

On April 29th Charles Baldwin Allen, the Scottish baritone and J. Clarendon McClure will broadcast from WEAT and the hour of their broadcasting will be found in the radio program for that date. Doubtless Mr. Allen will sing some of the songs that he will sing at the Y. W. C. A. next Tuesday evening at the concert being given by the two men beginning at 8:15 o'clock. Some Kingston music lovers who recently heard Mr. Allen and Mr. McClure in New York report that the enthusiasm over Mr. Allen's singing was so great that the audience could not wait to the end of the song but burst into applause at the end of each verse of the song they particularly liked. It will be remembered that that was exactly what happened when Mr. Allen made his first appearance before a Kingston audience at the first exposition here.

Blizzard's Tail Hit Gallupers

The April Fool Joke by Old Man Winter Struck Training Camp and Caused the Ball Tossers to Exercise Imaginations.

Training Camp, April 5.—The March lion wagged his tail and scattered a foot of snow over the training camp of the Mountain League champions here the first of the month, and as a result the boys have been doing indoor work and exercising their imaginations, which needed some jazzing lately. The blizzard left in its wake some wild tales unfolded by the Biven boys, Blink and Zink, who were reminded of the days when winter was winter.

"Talking about snow on the first of April," remarked Blink Biven after the ball tossers had disposed of the evening repast. "I remember hearing my great grandfather tell the story he had heard from a neighbor who had heard it from a man who lived near us and who had gotten the story from another of one winter when we had so much snow that they had to learn the animals to wear snowshoes in order to get around."

"It was on the first of April when the big storm of that winter hit the region, and it was followed by a drizzle of rain and snappy cold weather. As a result the following day the crust had formed to such an extent on the snow that folks were able to get about easily on snowshoes. The only difficulty was they found the going rather slippery."

"This man who told the story said that some of the folks had gone to the top of a big hill to enjoy coasting and while standing out in the open were caught by a sudden gust of wind which caused them to shoot suddenly down the side of the mountain. They had taken along some fresh eggs intending to cook them and enjoy lunch on top of the mountain but when they reached the bottom they found that they had traveled at such a fast rate of speed that the heat caused by their flight through space had cooked the eggs in their pockets until they were hard boiled."

"They must have been hard boiled," interjected Fatty Clinker in derisive tones.

"They were so hard boiled," continued Blink unabashed, "that in order to eat them they had to use rocks to crack the shells."

"I remember hearing grandfather tell that, too," said Zink Biven, as his brother paused "and he said that when they found they could not eat them they decided to have some sport anyway, and they used some of the eggs for baseballs when they got home."

"I suppose they even played baseball in the winter too," suggested Clinker with a grunt of disbelief. "They sure did," agreed Zink, "and I remember hearing grandfather say that one of the fastest games ever played was staged that winter between the rival village teams and they used these eggs for balls. No matter how hard you hit them you could not even make a dent in the shell. The only trouble was that the catcher had to use reinforced gloves on both hands to hold the eggs thrown at him."

"I would not mind having some of them some time to try out on an umpire," warbled Clinker.

"Funny thing about that game though," continued Zink "it wound up in a wrangle. It seems that in order to keep warm between times they started a bonfire and one of the eggs fell near the blaze. When the egg being used was knocked out of the lot, some joker picked up the egg, near the fire and threw it in to the pitcher. He wound up and hurled it over the plate."

"The batter met it with a resounding crack and the egg split into a thousand fragments scattering its contents into the eyes of both the catcher, pitcher and batter, and a battle royal started when the umpire ruled it a 'foul' strike, and that ended the game right then and there."

"You fellows better turn in early for we are going on a three mile jog early in the morning as we have not had road work in some time," broke in Captain Ralph Roodboy.

The Busters, ancient rivals of the Gallupers, have failed to show up here yet, and it may be that they got blizzard bound somewhere. Your correspondent, however, will keep the ball fans informed of the situation here.

MORE BIG CONCERNS TO DO WITHOUT BILLBOARDS

In this week's issue of The Outlook, an editorial article entitled "A Landscape Once More," speaks with high commendation of what the women of the county and Mrs. W. L. Lawton, chairman of the national committee for the restriction of Outdoor Advertising, are doing in the way of once more restoring to the motoring and hiking, railroading and boating public an unobstructed view of the beautiful scenery by securing the gradual elimination of the billboards in the open. Besides the Standard Oil Company of New York, the following other big business concerns have agreed to do away with their billboards just as soon as their present contracts expire: Kirkman & Son, soap; Kelly-Springfield Tire Company; Pillsbury Flour Company; Washburn-Crosby Company; Standard Oil Company of California; Champion Spark Plug Company; B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company; Sun Oil Company; Hood Rubber Company; Ajax Rubber Company; Ward Baking Company; Dodge Brothers; Gulf Refining Company, and the Fleischmann Yeast Company. Locally, through the Ulster Garden Club, screen notices of this movement have been showing at the local theatres this week and next Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Lawton will speak at St. John's Parish House at 3 o'clock.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

OHIO.

The first permanent settlement in that part of the northwest territory, now the state of Ohio, was made at Marietta 156 years ago today, April seventh, 1788. A new Ohio company was formed in 1786, and early in April two years later, a company of pioneers from Danvers, Mass., and Hartford, Conn., left Summer's Ferry on the Yonghiogheny, on a little vessel called the Mayflower. They landed on the site of Marietta April 7, 1788, and built a town which they named in honor of Marie Antoinette, Queen of France. Later in the same year the town of Cincinnati, at first called Losantiville, was laid out. Dayton was founded in 1795, and the following year witnessed the settlement of Cleveland, Conneaut, and also Chillicothe. The first legislature met in Cincinnati, but Chillicothe became the seat of government in 1800, and it was the first capital of the state following the admission of Ohio to the union in 1803. Zanesville which was founded in 1799, became the state capital in 1810. Two years later Columbus was laid out and in two years it became the permanent capital of Ohio. The Ohio country was long claimed by both French and English, and for some time it was a part of Canada.

Legion Minstrel Moves Smoothly

Fifth Rehearsal Discloses Fine Songs, Jokes, Nifty Costumes and Some Children's Dancing.

The American Legion minstrel show which will be given this year on April 28 and 29, is progressing under the direction of Harry Maisenbelder and after the fifth rehearsal which was held Sunday afternoon at the Elks' Club house it was pronounced a success. The rehearsal of the cast of "Over The Top" showed that there are several mighty good acts and numerous stars included in the cast.

At the rehearsal the full chorus was in attendance and the songs which are the latest hits and the jokes which are new and bright as well as the costumes proved that the show is going to be good. The costumes are the niftiest which have ever been seen in Kingston. The chorus men will be attired in Tuxedo coats of black cloth with gold lapels. The trousers will be of dark blue satin material so that the Legion colors will be worked out to perfection.

The end men will be attired in the same costumes except that they will wear the full dress coat. The end men are William G. Newkirk, Peter Jordan, Thomas Murray, John Palisi, Andrew Jansen, John Fischer, Zeke Boss and James Manning. Thomas F. Coughlin will be interlocutor.

A representative of a New York costume house was present Sunday and measured the cast for the costumes.

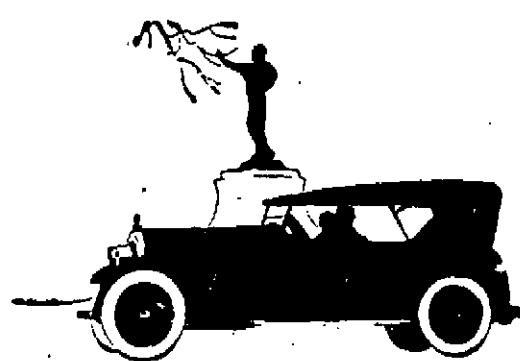

The second part of the program will reveal several local artists who need no introduction. Perry Allen will appear in Jewish comedy sketches. Dick Bernard and Burton M. Castle will appear in single and double baton juggling act and those who delight in children's dancing will enjoy that part of the program in which Miss Helen Cashin's pupils will appear in a dancing review entitled, "Cupid's Garden."

Master John Gallagher will entertain with popular songs. The second part of the program will close with a comedy sketch which will be announced by the director later.

Tickets are on sale at the office of Eugene B. Carey, adjutant, 53 John Street; The Flower Shop, Broadway and St. James street and Murphy's News Store on East Strand and also from members of the Legion.

Knight Unable to Emit

Cheers About His Club

Jack Knight, former infielder for various clubs in the major leagues and for Minneapolis and Toledo in the American association, has been traded by Oakland of the Pacific Coast league to Shreveport, Texas league.

Knight will play first base and act as a field manager for Ira Thomas, who will devote his entire attention to the business duties of the club.

Knight was a member of the Miller team of 1915, 1916 and 1917. He pulled a remark while managing Cleveland in the American association that was a classic of its kind. It will be remembered that Toledo was transferred to Cleveland in 1913 and 1914. During the latter season, Knight had a classy looking team, but the Mud Hens could not win.

A friend of Knight's said to him one day: "I don't see why your team fails to win. On paper, at least, you have the best team in the league."

"You're right," answered Knight. "They're the best team on paper, but the rottenest on grass."

Jack Renault Training

Carl Mays Makes Life

Hard for the Umpire

National league umpires are bound to experience some hectic afternoons the coming season now that Carl Mays will pitch for the Cincinnati Reds.

He always has been a tough fellow for the arbiters to handle. To begin with, Mays' style of pitching causes the ump's plenty of grief. He throws underhand, all of his shots starting near the ground, and keeps the ball around the batter's knees. Carl alternates between a fast ball that breaks like a spitter and a curve that rises as it nears the plate.

Mays has a bad temper, too, and in his attempts to get all of the close decisions, makes life miserable for the umpires.

Jack Renault, Canada's heavy-weight champion and contender for the world's heavyweight title, is at Hot Springs, Ark., where he is getting into shape for the coming evening season in the baseball parks.

Baseball Notes

The real sign of spring is the line-up for seats at the opener.

A. Rankin Johnson has signed to manage the Temple team of the Texas association.

Louisville has added another Cuban to its roster, signing Vincent Tarracho, a first baseman.

Dallas has signed Bill Matlock, third baseman of the Southwestern university of Georgetown, Tex.

As a baseball training field Florida apparently does everything except guarantee pennant winners.

Old-line politicians go on the theory that it is all right to cut second base if one is sure the umpire isn't looking.

Charley Deal, third baseman of the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast league, has decided to report to his team.

Joe Gleason, pitcher for the Columbus American association team, has been sold to Galveston of the Texas league.

The New York Yankees have released pitcher Elbert Johnson to the Des Moines club of the Western league.

The St. Louis Browns have taken on for trial Milton Hyland, a New Britain (Conn.) semi-pro pitcher. Hyland is a left-hander.

Norman Williamson of Hampton, Va., senior and all-round athlete, has been elected captain of the Boston university baseball team.

Republican politicians are considering the nomination of Nap Lajoie, former American league baseball star, for sheriff of Cuyahoga county, Ohio.

Mark Purcell, manager of Hutchinson, has traded pitcher Bob Good to Beatrice of the Nebraska State league for Ben Wiggins, a catcher and outfielder.

George Sisler, manager of the St. Louis Americans, plans to return to the game this season in the capacity of manager, first baseman and pitcher.

Among new umpires signed for the Mississippi Valley league is Tinker Driscoll of Peoria, Ill., well known in independent circles as the handler of an indicator.

Kid Elberfeld of Little Rock and Johnny Dobbs of Memphis are out with announcements that they will not don uniforms this year, but will stick to the bench. The idea is to give their teams an extra player.

"I have achieved my greatest ambition in the winning of these titles," he said, "and now I am content to rest on my laurels."

ANOTHER BUSY WEEK AT ALBANY AVENUE CHURCH.

This is another busy week at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church. Tonight the monthly meeting of the officers and teachers of the Bible school will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther S. Decker, 7 Mountain View avenue, and several matters of importance are to come before the meeting. The Scout troop will meet on Tuesday evening of next week instead of Monday. On Wednesday afternoon there are two meetings. The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at 2 o'clock. At 4 o'clock comes the pastor's class and at 7 o'clock the meeting with Kenneth R. Decker as leader. The prayer meeting is on Thursday evening at 7:30, and is preceded by a meeting of the pastor and deacons at 7 o'clock, when those who expect to unite with the church are asked to be present. These meetings represent only a part of the church activities. Other circles, classes and smaller groups are holding their meetings each week which are not announced publicly so that there is hardly a day when there is not one or more activities going on.

THRIFT IN U. S. SCHOOLS NOW ACCOMPLISHED FACT

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift

It is a matter of public interest that marked progress has been made during the school year now drawing to a close in the matter of thrift education. In all parts of the country both urban and rural, schools are introducing thrift in their curricula.

These results have come after eight years of research and industry upon the part of the Committee on Thrift Education of the National Council of Education. The chairman of this committee recently reported a widespread and growing interest in thrift education in schools throughout the nation. It is to the credit of this committee that definite and concrete measures of study have been mapped out which are receiving practical application.

In other words, thrift in the schools has arrived. From now on, year after year, the work will show in results. More and more schools will take it up, and a substantial foundation thus will be laid for thrift practices by future generations.

It is worthy of special attention that in the courses of study mapped out by the educational committee, thrift is given its broadest application. It is the thrift that means eliminating waste. It is the thrift of efficiency and progress.

Unfortunately there has been encouragement given to the belief that thrift is merely saving money, but the children of this nation are now being taught the broader principles of real thrift. The results will be that future generations will not only have a better understanding of the value of saving money, but will have at the same time an intelligent grasp of the rightful uses to which their savings should be placed.

It is a matter of public pride that the United States is the first country in which the subject of thrift has been given a definite place in the work of the public schools.

Charles Gorman, Canada's speed skating marvel, returning to his home at St. John, N. B., with the American national and international outdoor titles, was greeted by a cheering crowd of 10,000 sports people. In reply to their greeting he waved his skates over his head and announced that he would retire from competition.

Slide Blocks Road at Alsen

At 9:30 o'clock this morning, earth tremors, which alarmed the people of Alsen, proved to be due to a terrible landslide in front of John King's general store and post office on the main highway at Alsen. The huge bank of clay toppled over onto the highway and piled up into a small mountain. Thousands of tons of clay are said to be in the heap, which will necessitate some time in clearing up.

The general store in which direction the slide went, narrowly escaped being under the mass. There was no damage to property. The main highway will be blocked for some time, which will necessitate a detour. All along the road near this point there has been a great many wash outs and the road is said to be in a dangerous condition.

Telephone poles and wires, which were knocked down by the slide, were being put in working condition by a large force. State Highway Superintendent Frasher was also busy this afternoon with a gang clearing up the slide.

CURRENT OFFERINGS

AT THE THEATRES

At the Keeney Theater this evening and at the performances on Tuesday, "Under the Red Robe," the screen version of Stanley Weyman's historical romance bearing the same name, will be shown. Robert D. Mantell, John Charles Thomas and Anna Rubens are featured. The picture, it is said, was nine months in the making and the total cost upwards of $1,500,000.

At the Opera House tonight a new vaudeville program will be shown and repeated at the performances for the first half of the week. Also for the first three days of the week the feature picture, "Radio-Mania" will be screened. The story is a comedy based on Marconi's latest experiments of endeavoring to talk to Mars.

The Orpheum Theater offers today, tomorrow and Wednesday five vaudeville acts, featuring "The Three Jeannettes." In a comedy, variety annual act. The picture, a first run Paramount of 1924 is "Don't Call It Love," a William de Mille production, with a brilliant cast, including Agnes Ayers, Jack Holt, Nita Naldi, Theodore Kosloff and Rod LaRocque.

At the Auditorium today, Katherine MacDonald, in "The Scarlet Lily," the story of a lonely girl in a city of folly—of her big fight against it—the sort of battle a girl must give the world when she's got it to handle alone. All the artistry and entrancing grace of the world-famous beauty is here in a strange story of a man's way—a woman's way and the winning through sacrifice.

Birthday Party.

The home of Mrs. and Mrs. T. J. Leonard, 13 Greenhill avenue, was the scene of a pretty birthday party Sunday afternoon, the occasion being the 11th birthday anniversary of little Dorothy Clare of Newburgh, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard. Her many friends who gathered to wish her many happy returns of the day were: Ellen Gentile, Margaret Rafferty, Nellie Rafferty, Mary Rafferty, Anna Goughlin, Helen Carlin, of Jersey City; Catherine Herlich, of Jersey City; Warren Howe, of Jersey City; Helen Hinkley, Kathryn Hinkley, Catherine Smith, Anna May Norton, Edward Norton, Annabel Wood, Anna Cook, Ruth Post, James Wood, John Wood and Vincent Smedes.

Variety Shower.

Friday evening a surprise variety shower was tendered Miss Beatrice Burt at her home on Lindenman avenue. In honor of her approaching marriage to Richard Osterhout of Stone Ridge. At 11:30 the guests assembled in the dining room, where a bountiful supper was served. The decorations were yellow and white with many beautiful flowers. In the center of the table was a large basket of drooping rose buds and yellow candles burned about the room. The guests each received favors of yellow baskets of candy and wore caps to match. After the supper was served Miss Burt opened her presents, which consisted of many beautiful pieces of silver, linen and cut glass. Those present were: Loretta Gallagher, Mabel Sears, Wilfred Brower, Hazel Dutton, Caroline Weber, Hannah Myers, Gertrude Bart, Edna Davis, Hazel Buntin, Gertrude Brink, Beatrice Burt, Mrs. Henry Krempner, Mrs. Fred Snow, Mrs. Lillie A. Burt, Mrs. Harry A. Jones, Mrs. Jesse Burt, Dore S. Applegate and Master Harold Applegate. The hostess has the best wishes of many friends.

Raminsky-Samuels.

Frank J. Raminsky of No. 171 Water street, Newburgh, and Miss Eva Samuels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Samuels of No. 581 Broadway, this city, were united in marriage Sunday evening in Pythian Hall. Broadway and Thomas street, by the Rev. Jacob Koplovitz, rabbi of the Congregation Agudas Achaim. Over three hundred relatives and guests assembled at Pythian Hall to attend the wedding festivities. During the afternoon and evening Allsborough's piece orchestra of Newburgh furnished the fine musical program. The bride, who was given away by her father, was crowned in white silk with pearl trimmings and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Mrs. Sophie Becker, of New York, an aunt of the bride, was the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Gertrude Rosenthal and Anna Rosenthal of Poughkeepsie; Miss Rose Rosenthal of this city, and Miss Gordon of Newburgh. They were handsomely gowned and carried floral clusters. The best man was Saul Becker of New York. The ushers were Jacob Copan and Henry Bresky of Newburgh, Philip Claper, M. Kaplan and Percy Goldman of this city. Following the ceremony a reception was held and a wedding dinner served which had been prepared by Mrs. Novick of this city, assisted by two skilled chefs from New York city. The large hall was handsomely and artistically decorated for the occasion and guests were present from New York, Brooklyn, Newburgh, Yonkers, White Plains, Poughkeepsie and this city. After a honey-moon trip in Florida Mr. and Mrs. Raminsky will reside in Newburgh.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, April 7.—Irregularity characterized trading at the opening of the stock exchange today. Steels, motors and accessories showed heaviness, while oils and rails were steady. U. S. Steel lost $\frac{1}{4}$ to 99 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Crucible $\frac{1}{4}$ to 55 $\frac{1}{2}$, Studebaker $\frac{1}{4}$ to 92 $\frac{1}{2}$ and Stewart Warner $\frac{1}{4}$ to 78. Corden Oil was firm, advancing $\frac{1}{4}$ to 36 $\frac{1}{2}$. Marland $\frac{1}{4}$ to 35 $\frac{1}{2}$ and Standard of California $\frac{1}{4}$ to 62 $\frac{1}{2}$. Norfolk and Western Improved $\frac{1}{4}$ to 129 $\frac{1}{2}$. New Orleans, Texas and Mexico $\frac{1}{4}$ to 117 and Southern Pacific $\frac{1}{4}$ to 91 $\frac{1}{2}$. American Can lost $\frac{1}{4}$ to 104 $\frac{1}{2}$. Cuban Cane Sugar Preferred $\frac{1}{4}$ to 65 and American Woolen $\frac{1}{4}$ to 69.

The market was heavy in the foreign trading. In spite of encouraging statements by industrial leaders, the motors and kindred shares were made the chief targets for bear attacks.

Lasher to Be District Agent

Says the Middletown Times-Press of Saturday:

Frank Lasher, for some time Newburgh district agent for the Standard Oil Company, and fourteen years an employee of the company, it was learned unofficially here today, has been appointed special agent for the Middletown district.

It is expected that the Standard Oil Company will announce formally on Monday that Mr. Lasher has been named successor to the late James R. Sager, who was killed in an automobile accident near this city March 11. Mr. Lasher is 31 years old, married and has one daughter. He is now understood to be making plans to bring his family to this city at once.

Prior to assuming his duties as special agent for the Newburgh Standard Oil district, Mr. Lasher was identified with the Kingston interests of the company. He is a native of Kingston.

GOOD ROADS

MOTORISTS PAYING FOR BETTER ROADS

(By WILLIAM G. EDEN, President Illinois Highway Improvement Association.)
It is a trite but true saying that the motor car is responsible for good roads as we know them in the year 1924 in the United States.

There is no place in the country where this is more true than in Illinois. In the current year motorists will pay in license fees to the state alone approximately $10,000,000 for the maintenance and building of roads.

Nearly every city in the state levies a wheel tax against motor vehicles. It is probably safe to say that the aggregate 1924 municipal wheel tax collected in Illinois will be $5,000,000. Thus the motorists of the state will pay approximately $15,000,000 this year for roads and streets.

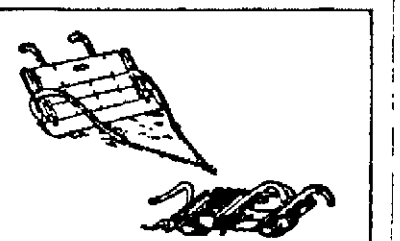

It is claimed by some experts in taxation that this is a special tax, and that the legislation responsible for it is class legislation. However that may be, it is an historic fact that organizations representing the motorists of the state were the first to propose and agree that such a tax should be levied, in order that the state might be saved from the terrible transportation conditions under which it labored until the modern businesslike method of road improvement was evolved.

It has become a habit of some later day advocates of good roads to claim pioneerism and to assert that whatever progress has been made in the state is due solely to their initiative and efforts. The transition which Illinois is now experiencing is due to a movement started by motorists and not by politicians, and is the natural outcome and continuation of a road building effort that was created more than a dozen years ago.

It may be interesting at this time, therefore, to give a brief sketch of the good roads movement that has brought to Illinois many hundreds of miles of concrete and other permanent pavements in place of mud, sand and clay that were prevalent in the early part of the present century.

Road and Ditch Machine

Lessens Strain on Team
In addition to being durably constructed and adapted for operation in either soft or hard ground, this scraper

Is provided on its under side with semi-cylindrical runners which not only decrease the strain upon the horses but also do away with the necessity of holding onto the handles while the load is being taken to the dump. E. Allen and F. Allen, Clare, Mich., are the inventors.

Plan Road Schools for Pan-American Delegates

Forty delegates will be brought to this country from Pan-American countries to make an intensive "shirt-sleeves" study of highways and highway transport under the terms of a plan approved by government, automotive, road machinery, road material and banking representatives at a meeting held in New York.

The proposal as outlined by Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. Walter Drake, T. H. MacDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads, and Dr. G. Sherwell, secretary-general of the Inter-American high commission, provides that the men to be invited will be named here, and all of their expenses will be paid by private subscription.

The immediate purpose is to give the delegates a sufficient understanding of developed highway transport to enable them to participate actively in the Pan-American highway congress proposed at the last meeting of the Pan-American Union and which will be held as a separate project in 1924. The ultimate objective is the promotion of closer relations between the United States and the other countries of the Americas.

Roy D. Chapin, Hudson-Essex company; W. A. Beatty, Austin Manufacturing company, and Fred I. Kent, Bankers Trust company, were named as an executive committee. Details in this country will be handled by the highway education board. S. T. Henry, formerly of the Engineering News-Record, will manage the project.

Along New Oregon Road

The stretch of highway connecting Pacific highway with Fifth street in Oregon City, which has been under construction for several months, will probably be completed and opened to traffic by June 1.

When this piece of road is opened it will afford one of the most picturesque scenes in the state. At the point where the highway climbs to the top of the cliff Oregon City, Willamette falls and the surrounding country are in plain view.

Eggs of the Lobster

A female lobster will lay from 3,000 to 75,000 eggs, according to its size and age. The eggs are glued to the under surface of the body and are carried about for ten months before hatching.

Local Batteries To Stage Bouts

At Armory Between Members of National Guard—First Bout May Be Held Friday April 25.

Boxing exhibition prospects were considerably brightened during the past week when the officers of Batteries E and I, 132nd Ammunition Train, New York National Guard were notified, through a booklet of instruction from the New York National Guard Athletic Committee, whose headquarters are in New York City, of all requirements of that body regarding boxing bouts throughout the state in the armories and also authorizing the local batteries to proceed, under proper supervision, in the foundation of a boxing association within the local organization.

A meeting has been arranged for at the local armory at which full plans will be outlined to hold the exhibitions. Barney Williams is the matchmaker and referee for all bouts and he is also organizing shows at the Newburgh and Poughkeepsie armories.

The main feature of the army boxing contests is that every contestant must be a member in good standing in the National Guard and although this may somewhat interfere in the booking of some fighters, still it is not a very serious obstacle as many of the present day boxers are already members of the guard and others who are not already in the guard are keen to sign up. All fights that are being staged in the New York City armories are between members of the various guard units in the metropolis. The boys put up some wonderful exhibitions in the big city as well as up-state and of course would just as leave appear in Kingston against other battlers of like reputation.

Good cards put on by other clubs in the past generally went over big and it is likely that the local boxing fans will support the exhibitions in this city, which promise to be of the highest type.

It has been planned to hold these contests here without any interruption during the season. It is thought that if the drill shed is properly ventilated and some good cards booked for the summer months, very little difficulty should be encountered in drawing big crowds to the shows.

In a conversation with one of the men of the batteries the officer in charge said:

"Yes, we are contemplating holding the first boxing exhibition in the armory on Friday evening, April 25th, and some very good cards are promised. The only objection that stood in our way in the past was the lack of understanding of just how the affairs could be arranged. I have a pamphlet here from the New York National Guard Athletic Committee setting forth full details of just what is required."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Stanley and family have moved from Washington Avenue to the Robert Morris apartment on Allan Street, Saugerties.

About the Bible

Hardly a verse in the Bible but sounds important, quoted by itself or with the whole chapter. That comes from knowing how to write and having something to write about.
